

Ski tour Schwarzkopf, 2.765 m

Details of the tour:

Altitude difference: 1.580 hm

Walking time: 4,5 - 5 hours

Starting point: Bad Fusch (1.186 m)

Maximum steepness: 35 degrees

Tour time: February - April

Highlight: View of the Zeller Basin and to the highest mountain of Austria to the Großglockner.

Route: From Bad Fusch, follow the forest road to the Embach-Grundalm (1,292m). Past the alpine hut and along the marked summer path through the forest to an altitude of about 1,600m you cross into open terrain. Across initially steep slopes (attention: avalanche danger from the Hochtorn on the right) to an alpine hut and further uphill to the right of the ditch to a narrow point. After the bottleneck in the sense of ascent left over the next terrain step and again more in a southerly direction to the Grüne Lacke. The last 300Hm over the steep summit slope directly to the Schwarzkopf.

Descent: As ascent.

Weather info: Find out about the weather situation in the touring area before each tour, e.g. at www.wetter.orf.at or www.zamg.at Avalanche information: Before each tour, find out about the current avalanche situation in the touring area, e.g. at www.lawine.salzburg.at.

In any case, avoid ski tours when there is a warning for avalanche danger.

The use of this tour description is at your own risk. A liability for any accidents and damages is not assumed for any legal reason.